The first section, "Departure," explores the theme of loss. Stallings writes about the death of her father, the end of a relationship, and the passage of time. These poems are both heartbreaking and beautiful, as Stallings captures the pain and longing that comes with loss.

The second section, "Arrival," explores the theme of new beginnings.

Stallings writes about the birth of her daughter, the start of a new relationship, and the promise of the future. These poems are full of hope and optimism, as Stallings celebrates the beauty of life's journey.

The third section, "Eclipse," explores the theme of the human condition. Stallings writes about the nature of time, the search for meaning, and the fragility of life. These poems are both philosophical and personal, as Stallings reflects on the big questions of life.

Heading for Total Eclipse is a powerful and moving collection of poems that will resonate with readers of all ages. Stallings' writing is both beautiful and thought-provoking, and she has a unique gift for capturing the complexities of the human experience.
