

Pursuing Excellence and Setting an Example: President Obama's Commencement Speech

"Pursuing Excellence and Setting an Example" - President Obama Commencement Speech 2024

by Travis Mays

★★★★★ 5 out of 5

Language : English
File size : 488 KB
Text-to-Speech : Enabled
Enhanced typesetting : Enabled
Word Wise : Enabled
Print length : 16 pages
Lending : Enabled
Screen Reader : Supported

Good morning, graduates, faculty, staff, distinguished guests, and family and friends. It is an honor to be here today to celebrate the achievements of the Class of 2016.

This is a special day for you all. You have worked hard to get to this point, and you have much to be proud of. You have earned your degrees, and you are now ready to go out and make your mark on the world.

I know that many of you are feeling a mix of emotions right now. You are excited about the future, but you may also be feeling a little bit scared. That's understandable. The world can be a challenging place, and there will be times when you will face setbacks. But I want you to remember that you are not alone. You have your family and friends to support you, and you have the education and skills that you need to succeed.

As you go out into the world, I urge you to pursue excellence in everything you do. Don't settle for mediocrity. Set high standards for yourself, and work hard to achieve them. Be the best that you can be, and never give up on your dreams.

In addition to pursuing excellence, I also urge you to set an example for others. Be a role model for your younger siblings, your friends, and your community. Show the world what it means to be a responsible and engaged citizen.

I know that you can make a difference in the world. You are the future leaders of our country and our world. You have the power to change the world for the better. So go out there and make us proud.

Congratulations to the Class of 2016!

Transcript

PRESIDENT OBAMA: Good morning, graduates, faculty, staff, distinguished guests, and family and friends. It is an honor to be here today to celebrate the achievements of the Class of 2016.

This is a special day for you all. You have worked hard to get to this point, and you have much to be proud of. You have earned your degrees, and you are now ready to go out and make your mark on the world.

I know that many of you are feeling a mix of emotions right now. You are excited about the future, but you may also be feeling a little bit scared.

That's understandable. The world can be a challenging place, and there will be times when you will face setbacks. But I want you to remember that you are not alone. You have your family and friends to support you, and you have the education and skills that you need to succeed.

As you go out into the world, I urge you to pursue excellence in everything you do. Don't settle for mediocrity. Set high standards for yourself, and work hard to achieve them. Be the best that you can be, and never give up on your dreams.

In addition to pursuing excellence, I also urge you to set an example for others. Be a role model for your younger siblings, your friends, and your community. Show the world what it means to be a responsible and engaged citizen.

I know that you can make a difference in the world. You are the future leaders of our country and our world. You have the power to change the world for the better. So go out there and make us proud.

Congratulations to the Class of 2016!

Analysis

President Obama's commencement speech at Howard University was a powerful and inspiring message about the importance of pursuing excellence and setting an example for others. He challenged graduates to use their education and talents to make a positive impact on the world. He also emphasized the importance of perseverance, resilience, and the power of hope.

Obama's speech was particularly relevant to the graduates of Howard University, a historically black university. He spoke about the challenges that African Americans have faced throughout history, and he urged graduates to continue to fight for justice and equality.

Obama's speech was also a call to action for all Americans. He urged graduates to use their voices and their talents to make a difference in the world. He said, "You have the power to change the world for the better. So go out there and make us proud."

Obama's speech was a powerful reminder of the importance of education, perseverance, and hope. He challenged graduates to be the best that they can be, and to use their education and talents to make a positive impact on the world.

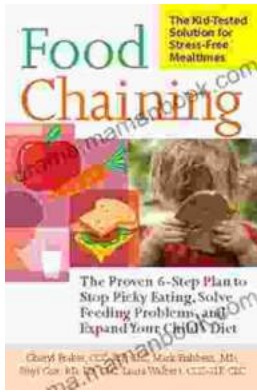

"Pursuing Excellence and Setting an Example" - President Obama Commencement Speech 2024

by Travis Mays

★★★★★ 5 out of 5

Language : English
File size : 488 KB
Text-to-Speech : Enabled
Enhanced typesetting : Enabled
Word Wise : Enabled
Print length : 16 pages
Lending : Enabled
Screen Reader : Supported

The Proven Step Plan To Stop Picky Eating, Solve Feeding Problems, And Expand Your Child's Food Repertoire

Picky eating is a common challenge for parents and children alike. It can be frustrating for parents who want their children to eat a...

The Diabetics Menu: Your Low Carb Options

If you're living with diabetes, you may be wondering what your low-carb options are. This article will provide you with a comprehensive diabetics menu that includes a wide...